Reflection on Readings

Jonah is a delightful novella best read in its entirety. It speaks of God's compassionate response to the penitent, but with sinful foreigners as the role models of repentance the story is also a rebuke against the obstinacy of the people of Jerusalem and Israel who do not listen to the prophets. Due to its length, though not very long, reading the whole needs to be done outside the liturgy, but it is beneficial to encourage people to read and reflect upon it in order to prepare for this Sunday. The excerpts we read today stress the swiftness of the Ninevites' reaction: Jonah does not have good news for them but proclaims simply, in effect, "You will be destroyed"; they believe him, and they repent in fasting and in sackcloth. Then we hear the oft-repeated statement (but more often forgotten by critics of the Old Testament's so-called angry God): God relented and did not do what he had threatened.

In today's gospel (Mark 1:14-20) the public ministry of Jesus begins, but there are significant contrasts with Jonah: Jesus proclaims good news, saying "The kingdom of God has come", inviting the people to repent, to change their minds or ways. But will they? Unlike the Ninevites, and too much like the Jerusalemites whom the book of Jonah was apparently written against, we know that at Jerusalem he will, like prophets of old, be rejected and killed—but of course not by all. Later in the novella Jonah, with a disregard for the lives of the Ninevites and an overinflated regard for his own reputation as a truth-teller, takes umbrage at God's relenting ways; taking himself to the shade of a shrub, he cares more about it than the innocents in the city. Contrariwise, Jesus rejoices in the message he proclaims, that God is near and compassion has arrived; he delights more over repentant sinners than in the righteous who feel no need to repent; he takes no offence when sinners change, but will himself become the protective shade to those who seek shelter in his cross. Jesus, rather than flee his mission as Jonah in his story had attempted to do, embraces his work with vigour, and immediately he begins recruiting others to assist so that even more may be sent to the great work. Thus, rather than following the usual pattern of the first reading directly supporting the day's gospel, Jonah is employed as a contradictory parallel.

The Lectionary's second readings more often than not have little directly in common thematically with either the gospel or first reading. Today, however, there is some convergence as the second reading (1 Cor 7:29-31) opens in effect with the message, "The end is nigh". But rather than being alarmed, Paul's hearers are to look forward to it. Others fearing the end of the world experience distress, whereas the Christian message means more completion than destruction. There had sometimes been misunderstanding over these ideas, however, and it took some years before they realised that they had perhaps confused the advent of the Kingdom with the end of time. This reading discloses something of an expectation that the world will end soon, especially in the advice to live as if unmarried, in effect to cease propagating the species. The other advice about not being engrossed in or snagged by the ways of the world that will end, by which is meant human rule, is more easily interpreted in the other understanding, that is, that the world of waywardness will end; God's will, will rule.

Inspired by John XXIII's prophetic opening of the windows of the Church, we welcome the fresh air of the Holy Spirit, inviting every person to share in the responsibility of enriching the life and faith of our community by sharing their gifts and talents."

Entrance Antiphon

O sing a new song to the Lord; sing to the Lord, all the earth. In his presence are majesty and splendour, strength and honour in his holy place.

First Reading

Jonah 3:1-5, 10

A reading from the prophet Jonah

The Ninevites renounced their evil ways.

The word of the Lord was addressed to Jonah: 'Up!' he said 'Go to Nineveh, the great city, and preach to them as I told you to.' Jonah set out and went to Nineveh in obedience to the word of the Lord. Now Nineveh was a city great beyond compare: it took three days to cross it. Jonah went on into the city, making a day's journey. He preached in these words, 'Only forty days more and Nineveh is going to be destroyed.' And the people of Nineveh believed in God; they proclaimed a fast and put on sackcloth from the greatest to the least.

God saw their efforts to renounce their evil behaviour. And God relented: he did not inflict on them the disaster which he had threatened.

The word of the Lord.

Thanks be to God.

Responsorial Psalm

Ps 24:4-9

R. Teach me your ways, O Lord.

Lord, make me know your ways. Lord, teach me your paths. Make me walk in your truth, and teach me: for you are God my saviour. R.

Remember your mercy, Lord, and the love you have shown from of old. In your love remember me, because of your goodness, O Lord. R.

The Lord is good and upright. He shows the path to those who stray, he guides the humble in the right path; he teaches his way to the poor. R.

Second Reading

1 Corinthians 7:29-31

A reading from the first letter of St Paul to the Corinthians

The world as we know it is passing away.

Brothers: our time is growing short. Those who have wives should live as though they had none, and those who mourn should live as though they had nothing to mourn for; those who are enjoying life should live as though there were nothing to laugh about; those whose life is buying things should live as though they had nothing of their own; and those who have to deal with the world should not become engrossed in it. I say this because the world as we know it is passing away.

The word of the Lord.

Thanks be to God.

Gospel Acclamation

Mark 1:15

Alleluia, alleluia!

The kingdom of God is near: believe the Good News! Alleluia!

Gospel

Mark 1:14-20

A reading from the holy Gospel according to Mark

Repent, and believe the Good News.

After John had been arrested, Jesus went into Galilee. There he proclaimed the Good News from God. 'The time has come' he said 'and the kingdom of God is close at hand. Repent, and believe the Good News.'

As he was walking along by the Sea of Galilee he saw Simon and his brother Andrew casting a net in the lake - for they were fishermen. And Jesus said to them, 'Follow me and I will make you into fishers of men.' And at once they left their nets and followed him.

Going on a little further, he saw James son of Zebedee and his brother John; they too were in their boat, mending their nets, he called them at once, and, leaving their father Zebedee in the boat with the men he employed, they went after him.

The Gospel of the Lord.

Praise to you, Lord Jesus Christ.

Communion Antiphon

Look toward the Lord and be radiant; let your faces not be abashed.

FAITH FORMATION

⇒ Our Lady of Perpetual Help

Oh Mother of Perpetual Help, grant that I may ever invoke your powerful name, the protection of the living and the salvation of the dying. Purest Mary, let your name henceforth be ever on my lips. Delay not, Blessed Lady, to rescue me whenever I call on you. In my temptations, in my needs, I will never cease to call on you, ever repeating your sacred name, Mary, Mary. What a consolation, what sweetness, what confidence fills my soul when I utter your sacred name or even only think of you! I thank the Lord for having given you so sweet, so powerful, so lovely a name. But I will not be content with merely uttering your name. Let my love for you prompt me ever to hail you Mother of Perpetual Help. Mother of Perpetual Help, pray for me and grant me the favour I confidently ask of you. (Then say three Hail Marys).
